Board Spotlight

Meet our incoming Board President!

Amy Carrington Stout

Originally from Mt. Sterling, Amy holds a bachelor's degree in journalism and mass communication from Samford University and an honors degree in media studies from Victoria University in New Zealand. Her professional journey began in career development at Georgetown College.

While managing a full-time career, Amy earned her master's degree in community and leadership development from the University of Kentucky. She joined Commerce Lexington in 2011, progressing to vice president of leadership development for the chamber until she assumed the role of member education manager at KLC, drawn by its mission of serving those who serve.

Amy currently serves as the president for the Lexington Children's Theatre and is a regent at Transylvania University. She and her husband, Hunter, are the parents of two children, Chloe and Jack.
